Skin Cancer Checks

“My cancer scare changed me. I’m now grateful for every new, healthy day I have. It has helped me prioritise my life.” - Olivia Newton John

Australia is the skin cancer capital of the world. More than 11,500 Australian men and women are diagnosed with a melanoma each year, and an estimated 434,000 people are treated for one or more non-melanoma skin cancers. Skin cancer accounts for over 80% of all new cases of cancer diagnosed in Australia each year. Luckily, skin cancer is almost entirely preventable.

Every year, in Australia, the incidence of skin cancer is one of the highest in the world, two to three times the rates in Canada, the US and the UK.

The sooner a skin cancer is identified and treated, the better your chance of avoiding surgery or, in the case of a serious melanoma or other skin cancer, potential disfigurement or even death.

A company-sponsored, evidence-based, comprehensive skin cancer screening program can educate you about your level of risk and provide advice on early detection.
